ANNOUNCES the 4th INDIE MEME FILM FESTIVAL

April 14, 26-28, 2019

#imff2019

Austin, TX (Feb 14, 2019) --- The 4th edition of Indie Meme Film Festival is scheduled April 14, 26-28, 2019 at the AFS Cinemas.

Over a period of 4 days, Indie Meme will showcase carefully curated, critically acclaimed, socially relevant independent features, documentaries and shorts from South Asia in an effort to engage, educate, entertain, and bring together different communities to promote cross-cultural understanding and help build a globally conscious community. IMFF 2019 will also include youth films and will have local, international, and US based filmmakers in attendance. Complete with red carpet, opening & closing night galas, audience discussions and networking events, IMFF promises to be a spectacular community event.

IMFF 2019 kicks off on Sunday, April 14th with IMFF YOUTH - a popular addition to the festival which provides a platform to young filmmakers to showcase their creative work. Indie Meme has also organised workshops to help local youth learn and refine their filmmaking skills under expert professional guidance. All other events will be organized between April 26-28th.

A detailed official selection of films & schedule of events will soon be announced. But for a sneak peak at the emerging curation, sharing two titles: "The Last Color", a directorial debut by Michelin star chef, renowned restaurateur, celebrity TV host & author Chef Vikas Khanna! The film, set in India is on restoring the life of dignity for widows expected to be forgotten in a colorless existence. Filmmaker will be in attendance. The other is "JIRGA" - a contemplative and purposeful feature set against the war-torn, stark yet exotic landscape of Afghanistan. Australia's Oscar entry, written and directed by Benjamin Gilmour, JIRGA questions the cost of war and more importantly, the cost of forgiveness.

To experience the diverse flavors of South Asian cinema in the heart of Austin, all inclusive Badges for IMFF2019 maybe purchased on <https://www.indiememe.org/imff-attend-2019>

The Indie Meme all inclusive Festival Badge allows attendance at all film screenings with priority seating, access to post screening discussions, entry to the Youth screenings, and invitations to Opening & Closing Night parties with international filmmakers.
